

“James Whelan Butchers is leading the charge in training the next generation of talented butchers.”

If you would like to be an Apprentice Butcher in a thriving, award-winning, family-founded company, then James Whelan Butchers would love to welcome you to our table. We handcraft exceptional meat but our real business lies in people – the people we serve and the great people who work with us.

Right now, we are looking for passionate, enthusiastic, and friendly apprentices to join our proud team as the Next Generation of Artisan Butchers. All of our Master Butchers have a passion for the art of butchery, artisan skills they will share with you, the next generation. We work hard to put together great teams, where everyone feels confident to grow and develop. With our renowned training, you will be able to express your creativity and ideas.

Our apprentices feel a sense of dignity in what they do and where they work. With us, you will flourish and grow in your chosen skill, always having the reassurance of a long-term path and sustainable future.

“Choose James Whelan Butchers and you’re choosing opportunity.”
